EMERGING PROFESSIONALS GROUP PRESENTS:

August 5 -

Retaining employees takes more than offering competitive pay. It requires companies to offer a solid “benefit” program and supportive work environment. The first portion of this session will examine a typical “benefit” program and provide a basic benchmark for your company. The second portion will address how employers can create a supportive work environment through low-cost or no-cost recognition programs and workplace practices.

November 3 -

How your company handles workers’ compensation claims will affect your bottom line. This session will illustrate how the workers’ compensation claim process works so you can take control of your costs. Participants will learn strategies to develop and implement a solid workers’ compensation management process, including pre-loss and post-loss strategies.
